To whom it may concern,

I am currently a fourth-year Graphic Design student attending CSUEB, looking forward to launching into a career in design. I am enthusiastic about creating strong visual communication that tells a story, builds brands, and connects with people. Before shifting into design, I built a successful career in hospitality management, where I developed skills in leadership, project coordination, and client service. Throughout that time, I found myself most drawn to the creative aspects of the job; designing event materials, building training resources, and helping craft brand experiences that left an impact. That passion led me to pursue a formal design education, where I have developed a solid foundation in typography, branding, layout design, and the Adobe Creative Suite. I am proud to bring both real-world experience and creative skills to my work. I understand how to collaborate with teams, manage projects under pressure, and stay focused on both the big picture and the delicate details. I would be excited to contribute my creativity and work ethic to your team. Thank you for considering my application. I would love the opportunity to speak with you and learn more about how I can support your design goals.
